Torrance High Students Learn Reforestation Facts From Film

Two reels of motion pictures depicting the work of the high school students with regard to reforestation were shown to the student body in the high school auditorium Monday, April 23.

W. R. Tanner, assistant director of vocational education on the Los Angeles county school system, is the man in charge of the showing of the picture and was on hand to explain parts of it.

The federal authorities have granted a strip 7 miles long and 1 mile wide to the Los Angeles schools in Clear Creek canyon to replant. Clear Creek is half way between Switzer's Camp in Arroyo Seco and Hansen's Lodge in Tu-Junga Canyon. This Clear Creek area, 6,500 acres, about 20 square miles, once forested, burned August 18, 1925.

The picture showed the boys in their work at the camp, the lumber coming from old school materials. One of the things brought out most clearly in the picture was the effect of carelessness in a forest, especially during the dry season. It takes but a cigarette butt tossed away still burning, or the remains of a camp fire, or the burning wad from a shot gun, to start a huge forest fire, destroying not only thousands of dollars worth of lumber, but decreasing the reserve supply.

Forest rangers are always on duty in the forest reserves, and when a fire is sighted, the location is immediately reported to a centrally located fire chief, who sends fire fighting equipment from the closest ranger station.

Although forest fire fighting has now advanced until they have a portable engine and hose that may be placed in a mountain creek and supply water, the forest fire fighter's most important equipment is a pick and shovel. With these he must make a trench or cleared area around the fire. How the brush fire was started after the trench was built was also shown in the picture, and this gave the students a clear idea of how the large forest fires were combated.

The boys are very interested in the camp and go up summer and winter. Mr. S. E. Merrill, teacher of agriculture in Torrance High, took up a group of 20 or more boys to Clear Creek, April 25.

The boys were also shown building a dam to insure a permanent supply of water. This dam will hold 20,000 gallons of water.

The camp in that section is headquarters for activities, and all of the buildings, trails, etc., have been built by the boys, the lumber coming from old school materials.

On the basis of points obtained in test passing and advancement during the month of March the honor of presenting the American flag at the opening and closing ceremonies was awarded to Troop No. 4.

Second class badges were awarded to Albert Dumont, Troop No. 1, and Warren Wilcox, Troop No. 4. First class badges to Raymond Rogers, Troop No. 1, George Gibson and Melvin Howard, Troop No. 3, and Gordon Arnold, Troop No. 4. Star badges to William Barnes, Troop No. 3, Douglas Brumpton, Robert Hannon and William Loftus, Troop No. 4, and Life badges to Kenneth Dutler and Charles Kissinger, Troop No. 4. Three Scouts, Clyde Bodley, Troop No. 3, and Merton Gilbert and Wilson Page, were announced as having completed approved examinations for Eagle rank, the highest award in Scouting, and recommended to the National Council for medal presentation.

Sixty-seven merit badges were awarded, a record number for Torrance Scouts in one month, and the announcement was made that this record equaled the combined results of San Pedro and Wilmington for the same period. Other outstanding awards included the presentation of a Silver Palm to Clifford Ruppel, Troop 3, and four Sea Scout badges to James Shearer, Troop No. 1, and William Barnes, Clyde Bodley and Earl Tavan, Troop No. 3, the first Sea Scout badges ever presented locally.

A number of interesting contests were conducted and medals awarded to the following named Scouters: friction fire to Charles Kissinger; first aid to Clyde Bodley; signaling to Egbert Merrill and Merton Gilbert, and a knot tying medal to the nine Scout team representing Troop No. 1.

The next Sea Scout meeting will be conducted next Tuesday evening at the Scout headquarters and all first class Scout at least 14 1/2 years old are cordially invited to attend. The instruction for the evening will include the rigging up of a mast with proper roping and equipment. A removable mast is erected in the center of the room for instruction purposes during the Sea Scout meeting and members of the group learn by practical experience how the work is done. The Sea Scout program is a land program until a thorough training has been given and no member is permitted to do any water work until this training has been completed. Of the fifteen tests provided for advancement from second to third rank, Ordinary to Able seaman, only two have to do with water work, and one of these is to pass the merit badge for swimming.

Garden Section Entertains Club

Flowers Brighten Tables at Regular Luncheon for Women

The Garden Section had charge of the regular meeting of the Women's Club, held in the clubhouse yesterday afternoon. They entertained with a silver tea, at which the Garden committee received, and Mrs. Crossland and Mrs. Beckwith presided at the tea tables.

The tables were decorated with California poppies and garden flowers, and carried out a purple and yellow color scheme.

Small silvered flower pots were the receptacles for the silver donations, and two tiny tots, Virginia Steadman and Norine Fry, sold bouillonieres of garden flowers.

On the program were several musical numbers and a reading by Virginia Steadman. Mr. S. E. Merrill, agriculture teacher at the High School, gave a talk on gardens and garden flowers.

Rolls-Royce to Adopt Valve-in-Head Like Buick

Costly English Car Has Other Features of Buick

Flint, Mich., May 3—More than a million Buick owners in America will feel a glow of satisfaction at the announcement that England's most expensive motor car, Rolls-Royce, has recently adopted the valve-in-head engine.

Besides confirming the judgment of the Buick Motor Company, which pioneered that type of power plant and now offers it at its finest in the Buick models, the announcement is a tribute to the discrimination of every Buick owner.

This British car's similarity to Buick does not end with the engine, but includes also cellular radiator, worm and spiral steering gear, torque tube drive, floating rear axle, and cantilever springs. Comparison of specifications tend to support the already overwhelming evidence—collected by 2,000,000 Buick owners—in favor of these advanced details of engineering.

A point of more than passing interest, in the opinion of Buick officials, is the fact that this British prototype of Buick sells at a much higher price than Buick. The explanation is two-fold. The Rolls-Royce is of course a much larger and heavier car, and naturally costs more to manufacture. That accounts for a large part of the difference. In the second place, each of the features listed is more costly than the corresponding part in cars of conventional design. In the aggregate represented by the completed car, the difference becomes very great.

Rolls-Royce builds for limited consumption. Hence, even were the specifications of the two cars identical, Buick's volume production would make Buick's price relatively low. Volume manufacture alone makes it possible to sell such a combination of expensive features at a figure within popular reach.

The British manufacturer's announcement, it is pointed out, also shows the European trend toward American ideas in automotive engineering. That Buick's signal success abroad played its part in bringing about this latest adoption of the valve-in-head engine is regarded as certain.

WIFE-SAVERS

SALADS FOR DESSERTS
Many a hearty dinner, such as one of roast pork, rich dressing, with gravy, apple sauce and with a vegetable or two, is really so filling that the family will feel better with a very light dessert and will be amply satisfied with an expensive salad served with a sweetened French dressing.

The success of a fruit salad frequently lies in tossing it together lightly at the last moment, before serving. Soaking in dressing or in their own juices makes fruit limp, watery and unappetizing. Apples should be peeled and sliced or sliced, then covered with lemon juice and kept from the air, or it will discolor.

Here are a few salad desserts that take but a few minutes to prepare:

Apple Fruit Salad—One cupful of diced celery is mixed with two cupfuls of diced apple. Cover the first mixture with a tablespoonful of peanut butter mixed with four tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Chill thoroughly and serve on crisp lettuce.

Cocoanut Salad—Take one-half cupful of shredded cocoanut, three bananas, two seedless oranges. Spread the cocoanut in a pan and brown delicately in the oven. The fresh grated cocoanut is best. Peel the oranges, remove all the white inside membrane and slice in thin slices. Arrange several slices of orange on lettuce, peel the bananas and slice in half lengthwise, roll in the browned cocoanut and lay across the orange slices. Serve with mayonnaise.

Marshmallow Salad—Dice two slices of pineapple. Peel two seedless oranges and remove all the white inner skin, cut into thick slices, then cut into dice. Cut the marshmallows—using twelve—into small pieces, toss all together lightly and serve on crisp lettuce with mayonnaise dressing.
